INCREASE EQUIPMENT
RELIABILITY

FIBER OPTICS

Along with ongoing progress in the speed and scale of optical communications development, is an increasing need for higher reliability in optical network equipment. One of the largest factors in the loss of reliability is contamination of optical connector end face. In order to remove this factor, optical connector cleaners are indispensable cleaning tools.

Meanwhile, the MPO (Multi-fiber Push-On) multi-fiber optical connector has been adopted by data centers etc. especially in North America, and the multi-fiber optical connector has become popular in a greatly expanding market.

In response to the special cleaning needs of multi-fiber optical connectors, Senko is introducing a new cleaner for MPO optical connectors. By further expanding its lineup of optical connector cleaners, Senko is able to respond to an even wider range of its customers needs.
